The Florida African American Heritage Preservation Network (FAAHPN) serves as the largest consortium of African American museums and {historic sites as contributing affiliates} in the State of Florida. Overall activities for the 2015-2016 fiscal year will be directed toward further enhancing and promoting Florida as a destination, through heritage education and tourism initiatives. Overall activities will be directed toward further enhancing and promoting Florida's rich history through heritage education and tourism initiatives. Funds will provide direct support to enhance the appeal of each site as a tourism destination. The activities of FAAHPN will also contribute to community revitalization in the form of local job creation, revenue support to businesses and social and economic uplift. Funding received by the applicant will be used to accomplish the following: ? Support state tourism and economic development initiatives through planning and hosting of meetings, conferences and heritage tour projects. ? Generate new revenue as result of bed nights, travel, and expenditures with local businesses. ? Preserve historical landmarks, artifacts, folkways and legacies for the educational benefit of present and future generations. ? Assist local and municipal governments with special events, place-making, commemoration of historic events and other cultural enrichment initiatives. ? Develop sustainable alternative funding sources that are used to create and retain jobs. ? Patronize small businesses for goods and services that positively impact the local/regional economy. ? Showcase Florida as a model of excellence in combining culture, commerce and community as a viable economic catalyst for growth. ? Produce promotional materials to more effectively market African American cultural and heritage sites and museums as destinations to increase the tourism industry in Florida.
