The summary must list what local, regional or statewide interests or areas are served. It should also document the need for the funds, the community support and expected results when applicable. Be sure to include the type and amount of services as well as the number of the specific target population that will be served (such as number of home health visits to X, # of elderly, # of school aged children to receive mentoring, # of violent crime victims to receive once a week counseling etc.)

The Institute for Cuban and Cuban-American Studies at the University of Miami proposes to develop a permanent exhibit as well as an internet version that highlights the impact of Cubans and Cuban-Americans in Florida in addition to the successes and challenges that Cuban-Americans faced in the United States. The exhibit will begin by providing visitors with a comprehensive and informative video presentation on the various migrations from Cuba, with historical glimpses into the Cuban Diaspora and life in Florida. Throughout the exhibit visitors will explore and witness the human drama of a people forced to leave their own country for political reasons and start a new life in foreign soil.

The exhibit and online version will highlight the Cuban-American success story, the economic, academic, business and political development of this important group. Visitors will travel a journey from isolation and struggle to success and happiness as it shows the accomplishments of Cuban-Americans in Florida.

There is no such exhibit in the U.S. ICCAS is the ideal venue to present the history of Cuban-Americans, highlight the legacy of this important group and preserve it for future generations.
